

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Public airways are used free of charge by Sinclair and is required to serve the public interest. Large companies should not control the airwaves, if we get self-interest productions not reflecting real people from our own community that is substantive.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
